UPCOMING EVENTS IN NOVEMBER 16

EDITORIAL

Diwali Brings a Glimmer of Hope for Equities

As we enter the Diwali month, global markets have a number of important events to digest, with the US Midterm Elections on November 3 taking centre stage. The elections could reshape the US Congress and influence President Trump's fiscal and trade policies. Republicans face the risk of losing control of both chambers, with Democrats better positioned to capture the House and increasingly competitive in the Senate.

Interestingly, history suggests that US equities have generally performed well following midterm elections, irrespective of whether the President's party retains congressional control.

Another emerging theme is the rotation within global equities. Concerns over stretched AI valuations, coupled with recent technology and semiconductor earnings warnings, could encourage investors to look beyond the expensive US technology sector towards Asian and emerging markets. The proposed IPO of Anthropic has once again highlighted the enormous capital requirements of the next phase of AI development. While most Asian investors may not have direct access to such IPOs, the companies providing the infrastructure including TSMC, Samsung and SK Hynix could continue to benefit from the AI investment cycle. This could provide support to Asian markets and emerging-market indices.

The US Federal Reserve's decision to maintain status quo on interest rates in October has also provided some relief. It reduces the immediate fear of an aggressive tightening cycle in India, including expectations of a 50 basis point hike in December. However, a sustained rise in crude could reignite inflationary pressures and limit the room for central banks to ease rates.

Notably, India's domestic economic indicators are beginning to provide reasons for optimism. Despite elevated inflation, October recorded a remarkable 16% YoY rise in UPI transactions to ₹31.53 lakh crore. Monthly car sales reached an all-time high of 5.25 lakh units, while GST collections surged 22.9% YoY to ₹2.31 lakh crore, the second-highest monthly collection on record.

Foreign investors are also showing early signs of returning. FPIs turned net buyers during the last 10 trading sessions of October, investing around $1.2 billion in Indian equities. A sustained reversal in FPI flows could provide an important liquidity and sentiment boost to Dalal Street.

The market therefore enters the festive season with a more constructive backdrop. Strong domestic consumption, improving foreign flows and stable US rates provide reasons for cautious optimism. Risks remain, particularly crude, global bond yields, geopolitical tensions and stretched valuations in pockets of the market.
On the whole, this Diwali, the light at the end of the tunnel may be getting a little brighter.

INVESTMENT PERSPECTIVES

We present here a selection of distinctive investment opportunities identified for our clients, along with the respective investment dates and either the realized exit values or current valuations. For positions that continue to be held, the exit value column has been left blank. The expectation from these picks is to reap high double digit post tax absolute/annualised returns, exceeding the regular diversified funds.

We remain committed to consistently enhancing our clients' portfolio performance through rigorous research, disciplined analysis, and a sharply focused investment approach. By closely tracking and interpreting the broader spectrum of domestic and global markets, we aim to stay ahead of evolving trends and dynamics. This enables us to identify, evaluate, and deliver the most compelling investment opportunities to our clients at the right time.

SECTORAL INSIGHTS

- Technology funds gained 6.3% in October, outperforming all other categories, none of which crossed 1%. Q2 earnings from major IT firms triggered a recovery in IT stocks as the sector transitions towards automation, AI-driven delivery and high-value transformation. However, analysts attribute the rally largely to valuation rerating rather than immediate earnings upgrades.
- India's manufacturing growth moderated in October as domestic demand and hiring weakened. However, a surge in export orders and the slowest output price inflation in nearly four years helped offset the slowdown, according to a private survey. The HSBC India Manufacturing PMI, compiled by S&P Global, declined to 54.7 in October from 55.1 in September, falling below the preliminary estimate of 54.9. A reading above 50 indicates expansion.

Specialised Investment Fund (SIF)

The new kid on the investment block that's fast gaining investors' attention

- SIF is an investment product with a minimum investment of ₹10 lakh, offering greater flexibility in portfolio management.

Types of SIFs

Equity-Oriented

- Equity Long-Short Fund
- Equity Ex-Top 100 Long-Short Fund
- Sector Rotation Long-Short Fund

Debt-Oriented

- Debt Long-Short Fund
- Sectoral Debt Long-Short Fund

Hybrid

- Active Asset Allocator Long-Short Fund
- Hybrid Long-Short Fund

SIFs can take up to 25% exposure to unhedged derivatives, providing greater flexibility in managing market positions, a provision which is not allowed to Mutual Fund schemes.

Quant Specialised Investment Fund (QSIF) – Equity Long Short Fund, was launched exactly one year ago on 17 September 2025.

- Since their launch, equity markets have faced periods of weakness. The flexibility to use unhedged derivative positions has helped SIFs navigate market volatility and outperform their mutual fund peers. The unhedged derivatives exposure has favoured the performance of SIFs during this market downturn.
- Aided by significant outperformance over comparable MF categories, SIFs are seeing massive inflows. SIF AUM has increased from ₹12,320 crore in April 2026 to ₹31,175 crore in August 2026, nearly 3x growth in just four months.

TO WATCH OUT FOR IN NOVEMBER

- US Midterm Elections and Global Policy Shifts: The November 3 US midterm elections and evolving global central bank policies, along with movements in US Treasury yields, remain key external triggers for emerging markets such as India. A Democratic victory in either or both chambers of Congress could intensify scrutiny of corporate activities, government spending and legislative priorities.

- Corporate Earnings and Sector Outlook : Investors are closely tracking management commentary across banking, IT, pharma and industrials for insights into demand visibility, margin trends and signs of a recovery in consumer spending. These cues will be critical in assessing the sustainability of earnings growth and shaping market sentiment in the coming months.

- Crude Oil: Brent crude began on 2nd November nearly 8% lower, slipping below $105 a barrel amid easing supply concerns following US–Iran diplomatic developments. A further decline in crude prices could provide a positive boost to market sentiment.

- FPI Flows: FPIs turned net buyers of Indian equities over the last 10 trading sessions, investing approximately $1.2 billion. Sustained foreign inflows could lend further support to the domestic equity markets.
